What is the Purpose of bail?

When someone is accused of a crime, a bail amount may be set for the said person to be released from custody prior to their hearing date. Paying bail to the court guarantees that the defendant will appear in court as scheduled.

Bail serves neither to punish a defendant nor raise money for the state. Rather, it functions as an agreement that secures a defendant's presence at required legal proceedings.

We have 25 years of collective experience the bail bond industry

We've developed effective strategies that allow us to get those we represent out of jail as quickly as possible by making the necessary court arrangements.
